FOREIGN POLICY ISSUE

First of all it must be assumed that members of both camps in the rising debate over foreign policy are equally devoted to national defense and preservation of national ideals.

They are divided over the best way to do these things. One group believes in projecting American nationalism beyond national borders, into Europe and South America.

The opposition, apprehensive of becoming embroiled in war if this be done, favors strict neutrality and a national policy of isolation.

Its position is founded on the assumption the United States has everything to lose, nothing to gain, by taking sides in foreign entanglements. For proof, the World War is cited.

Members of the other group—they might be called interventionists—believe isolation is an outworn policy. They say national defense entails potential offense.

They argue that the best way to preserve democracy is to help preserve it where it exists abroad. They deny they seek war, but declare they believe war may be necessary to prevent invasion before it materializes.

Isolationists point out that interventionists are in danger of letting moral indignation, spurred by unneutral minorities within the United States, destroy official as well as popular neutrality. They warn against a possible connection between the temptation to thrust the country into a war boom and the Roosevelt administration's apparent interest in a more aggressive foreign policy. They argue that the best way to preserve American ideals is to protect them zealously at home, thereby removing any possible doubt of their worthiness. They deny there is any possibility of invasion from abroad, other than invasion of ideas.

These are the general terms of the foreign policy issue which promises to become the nation's chief topic of discussion in the near future. Chief spokesman for interventionists has become President Roosevelt. Opposition has appeared in congress, principally the senate, traditionally cautious about exercise of executive authority in determination of foreign affairs.

The theory of representative democracy assumes that the people, given access to information, will be able through their legislative representatives to reach a decision acceptable to the majority. Thus, the first pivot move has been the demand of those representatives to let the people know what commitments the Roosevelt administration has in mind.

IMAGINATION

It's understandable why San Quentenites went on a food strike against corned beef. Most prison uprisings on the food issue are caused by the same thing—monotony.

Corned beef is good eating. So are baked beans. So is meat loaf. So is spaghetti. So are mashed potatoes and gravy. They're all good.

But put them on a schedule, so the beef always appears on Monday, the beans on Tuesday, the meat loaf on Wednesday and so on—bang, there's a riot. Prisoners don't have many interests, except eating. They're penned up together and a grumble soon is magnified to roar, and from a roar to a riot is an easy transition.

Put the same number of ordinary American men into one big dining room, inflict on them the average unimaginative menu followed rigorously by American housewives and there'd be a riot too—no offense to housewives. It's just that they forget half the fun of eating is wondering what it will be tonight—dried beef on toast, or dried beef without toast.

FURY

Volcanic action has been added to the fears of disaster in Chile. Earth tremors, which have been steadily recurrent since the earthquake Jan. 24, permit no cessation of the panic which has had most of the country's population in its grip for the last 10 days.

Pictures and descriptions now reaching the United States confirm the early impression that what has happened in Chile will find a place among the major natural disturbances of the century. It is not entirely because of the remoteness of the disaster from the United States that it has not received more attention.

Even as close to home as New England, where there was a major disaster last September, a hurricane's toll of life and property seemed unimportant in relation to an infinitely man-made disaster which narrowly was averted, or perhaps only postponed. Nature's fury seems mild compared with the fury of men.

SURPRISE

Premier Juan Negrin of loyalist Spain, addressing his government's parliament, seems to have directed a beam of light on the question of who furnished arms for the Spanish civil war.

His government, he said, had been able to buy arms from Germany and Italy, backers of Gen. Franco. The only thing needed to make the picture complete is for Gen. Franco to declare now that his government bought arms from Russia.

This would go far toward disposing of the argument over who gave whom more help in the civil war. It would substantiate the expectation of cynics where war is concerned, that the customer is always right when there are munitions to be sold.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, February 5

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of very lively and happy events in domestic, social, artistic and romantic affiliations, although these may be beset with some friction, even unpleasantness, due possibly to over-indulgence, extravagance, impetuosity or reckless behavior. But despite auspicious prospects for congenial and sentimental relations there may be depressions.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a very eventful and joyous year in their private relations. These may have very romantic or social gratifications, unless extravagance, indulgence, strife or impetuosity are given bridle.

A child born on this day may be well-endowed with social graces or artistic talents. It may be gentle and genial, despite tendencies to indulgence, extravagance, tempest and passionate or impulsive outbursts, or exhibitions of "temperament." It might succeed on the stage.

For Monday, February 6

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a reign of sudden and surprising events, with upheavals that may have a radical and far-reaching influence on the future and its fortunes. Change, strange adventures and novel experiences are shown, and these may have to be managed by strategy, intrigue or some secrecy. Much unforeseen benefit and gratification are presaged.

Those whose birthday it is are at the brink of a year of quite unpredictable adventures and unusual occurrences, with a complete upheaval or revamping of plans and objectives. It may have romantic, novel or singular factors, with intrigue or hidden phases, but all spells happiness, adventure and success.

A child born on this day may be bold, adventurous, romantic and audacious, all in the pursuit of either scientific research or exploration into some hidden realm of the unknown and extraordinary.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Congress began the second month of the session today amid indications that democratic factionalism was developing rapidly into a fight for party control.

Some politicians predicted events of the next few weeks would sharpen the lines of this struggle, with President Roosevelt carrying on his battle for New Deal "liberalism," Vice President Garner working quietly as chieftain of "conservative" forces, and both sides thinking of the presidential nomination in 1940 as the prize to be captured.

There were some signs that the Democratic split had placed the balance of power in both senate and house in the hands of the "conservatives," a situation made possible chiefly by Republican gains in the November elections.

Republicans members, keenly aware of their own possibilities in 1940, have become more active than in any other congress of the Roosevelt administration, but it is only through the support of revolting Democrats that they may upset President Roosevelt's proposals on specific issues.

The twin issues of foreign policy and national defense are overshadowing all other questions before congress, but the nature and extent of the Democratic split may be reflected more quickly in congressional action on other questions.

Two nominations made by the President already have occasioned bitter protests by some senators.

Mr. Roosevelt's selection of Judge Floyd H. Roberts of Bristol to be a federal district judge in Virginia has been opposed vigorously by Virginia Senators Glass and Byrd, both anti-administration Democrats, and the judiciary committee voted overwhelmingly this week against confirmation.

Cigarets And Their Effects
Are Discussed by Physician

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Ever since the practice of using one cigarette as a filter in a cigarette holder has been going on, I have been asked to pass an opinion on it. Up to the present, I have had no dependable information but there have been several studies of late which allow us to answer these questions.

I would have been inclined to say, as a matter of opinion, that the use of another cigarette as a filter increased, rather than decreased the amount of nicotine which is obtained by the smoker. Certainly when you see one of those limp things taken out of a cigarette holder, it looks pretty flimsy. However, careful chemical analysis indicates that in some types of holders a little more than half of the nicotine is removed, and in other types about one-third is removed. The filters made of chemicals, cotton wads or rolled paper remove from one-third to one-fourth of the nicotine. When two cigarettes instead of one are used, nearly 80 per cent of the nicotine is removed.

Harmful Substances

These harmful substances which are in cigarette smoke include carbon-monoxide, which is present from 1/2 to 1 per cent in a cigarette. There is over 1 per cent in the smoke from a pipe and from 6 to 8 per cent in the smoke from a cigar. Strangely enough this carbon-monoxide does no harm as it is freely diluted with air in the mouth and the amount of carbon-monoxide that is absorbed is negligible. Pipe and cigar smokers seldom inhale smoke into the lungs so they have little to fear from this amount of carbon-monoxide.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Other possible harmful substances in tobacco smoke are ammonia gas and pyridine or pyridine local and they cause irritation of the mucous surfaces of the mouth and throat, producing a morning cough, rawness of the throat and conjunctivitis. This leaves nicotine as the only other substance besides carbon-monoxide which could have a constitutional effect. It has been abundantly proved that it is the nicotine that produces the general reaction from smoking. It is a violent poison but it is combusted in the consumption of the cigarette and so rapidly blown out that there is not enough absorption to cause the serious poisoning which, theoretically, should occur.

Effect On Heart

In studying the effect of cigarette filters on the heart, Dr. Segal of Rochester, N. Y., has shown that smoking half a cigarette produces a definite effect on the heart of these subjects under the age of 50. There is an increase in the pulse rate and a change in the electric graphic record of the heart. Those over 50 responded to a much lesser degree.

Why Your Money
Earns More

The money of many people of Salem and vicinity is joined together in this institution to work for the common good of all.

Hence, THE HOME is known as a mutual savings institution. It is truly a savings institution of the people, by the people, and for the people.

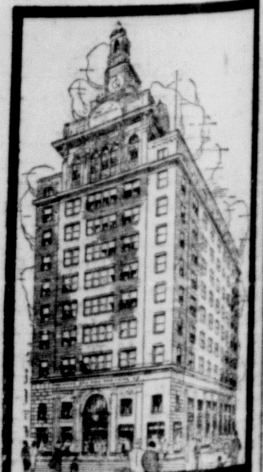

Earnings are equally distributed . . . each dollar shares equally with every other dollar . . . and all have the same protection.

That's why THE HOME for half a century has paid 3% or more on savings accounts.

In planning your savings program for 1939 consider the record of consistent earnings on money deposited with The Home Savings and Loan Company.

There's something satisfying about saving with an institution that has made so creditable a record.

Services In Our Churches

List Sermon Topic For Worship Rites At Trinity Church

"Our Glory Through Christ," is the theme which Rev. George D. Kester has chosen for his sermon at the morning worship service of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church tomorrow, Septuagesima Sunday.

Complete services for the church are as follows:

Sunday school, 9:45; (Acts 2:1-18, 36-41). Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

Prayer has always been counted important in the work of the Christian church. Jesus has given to all the world the immortal, "Sermon on the Mount." Its words and doctrines are universally known.

The preaching of Peter on the day of Pentecost was closely allied with the example of the Christ. The central thought and theme was "Christ crucified." This message brought conviction of sin in the human heart. The remedy was repentance and baptism in the name of Jesus. The preaching of the Christian church must always be centered in Christ, the Savior.

Morning worship, 11; sermon.

There are many aspects of the man that seem to reflect to the credit and personal benefit of humanity. The progress of the human race has been remarkable. Yet the scratching of the surface of man reveals how short has been the distance that humanity has traveled from heathenism. The march of civilization has not been very far when we behold some of the modern evidences of man's inhumanity and cruelty. The glory of man only comes through the power and changing force of the gospel of Christ into the human heart. The glory of Christ must shine in and through humanity.

This Sunday we shall do the same with the subject of engagement. "He Loved Me"

Man's journey through life is along a dark and often fearsome road. He is surrounded by mysteries. So many things do not make sense. He does not know why he exists. He is ignorant of his ultimate destiny. At times he feels himself to be a pawn in the hands of a cruel and merciless fate. Some higher power there is, he understands that. But what he can learn about that higher power from nature, from history and from his own experience, is not enough for love for trust, for confidence. And yet, he must know that God, must know Him to be his Father and himself His child. If life is to have meaning and value, and death be robbed of its hideous horror.

The answer to man's anxious questions, the end of man's weary quest, is God's Revelation, the Bible. There God throws light on problems that baffle the keenest intellect. The mysteries of evil and pain and death are explained. The why of human existence and the what of the future life are made known. In the Bible too, God reveals Himself as a God who loves and pitiless and pardons His erring children. Their love divine, finds its highest expression in the Cross. There the incarnate Son of God died for sinful humanity. Contemplating that Cross the sinner can say with a great and comforting assurance: "He loved me." Out of that Cross come contentment and peace and gladness, a willingness to submit to the will of Him who so loved, and strength to do His will. Many questions remain. Life's darkness never is completely dissipated. But the conviction which issues in the confession, "He loved me," transforms life and makes it a joyous adventure.

"ENVOY EXTRAORDINARY" by E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

World-shaking events are not far off when Matilda, Countess of Matresser, meets her handsome bachelor son and heir, Ronald, soon after one of his long and mysterious journeys abroad. He chides her gently for hiring foreign servants. Sir Ronald (Lord Matresser) has but started a rest on his rich country estate when an unconscious man is found under suspicious circumstances near the Great... Ronald's younger sister Ann, introduces him to Mademoiselle Elizabeth Stammer, a beautiful Austrian who is his new companion. Matresser recalls seeing her before. She is relating how her noble family, like most royalty, has fallen into evil days.... That night, Matresser confers with Dr. Andrews, an old family friend, who is treat-

"I should put her out of my mind if I were you," Matresser advised. "I have never allowed myself to put her in there," was the mournful reply.

"What I cannot make out," Matresser continued, "is why she consented to come. She strikes me as a young lady who has been used to a very different atmosphere."

"I saw you look at her when she came in," Andrews confessed. "To tell you the truth it put a queer idea into my head. I wondered whether you had ever met her before."

"Hard to remember exactly," was the careless reply. "A month in the cities and a year or more in the wild spots of the world and you find that your memory is performed—everything has slipped away. All the same you can make sure of one thing. Whether I have ever seen her before or not it was a great surprise to me to see her established in this household."

"Are you sure that you have

tance, when Andrews broke off in the middle of a thrilling account of the misadventures of a certain magistrate and with a startled exclamation, jammed down his brakes, swung almost into the hedge on the side and blew his horn furiously.

"What on earth was that?" he asked.

"A car driven by a lunatic," Andrews exclaimed furiously. "Curse the fellow! Not a single light showing. Not a thing to be heard with this accursed wind blowing and he must have been traveling at forty miles an hour. If I had not just managed that slight swing away we should have had him top of us."

Matresser stood looking for a moment earnestly into the pool of blackness, and beyond the right hand side to the faintly shining harbor lamp.

"The fellow might go into hiding anywhere if he thinks he has done any damage," he pointed out.

Dr. Andrews jammed down his brakes and swung almost into the hedge... "A car driven by a lunatic!" he exclaimed to Matresser.

ing the unconscious stranger. When Matresser says he won a bet that he would never reach Norfolk alive, the doctor thinks he is referring to his health.

CHAPTER V

"I believe," Matresser continued, "that I am in as perfect health as any man of my age could hope to be. It was not that at all. When one has led the sort of life I have, knocking about all the time in foreign countries, and there's a chance of real adventure, one is inclined to take risks which would seem appalling at home here.... Anyway, you can see, I have won my bet. Here I am safe and sound and wondering whether I have forgotten how to swing a shotgun. I have carried nothing but a rifle for months."

There was a brief pause. Matresser pushed the tobacco a little further down into the bowl of his pipe.

"By-the-by, you are a great pal of my mother's, Andrews," he remarked. "Have you any idea why she suddenly decided that Ann needed a companion and what made her bring Mademoiselle Stammer down into this part of the world?"

The doctor smoked on in silence for several moments.

"Your mother does occasionally come to me for advice," he admitted. "On this occasion she did not. We were none of us prepared for such a visitation."

"Visitation?" Matresser queried thoughtfully.

"Can't think of any other word for the moment," Andrews confessed. "She has been here a little over a year and there's not a man I know who hasn't lost his heart to her."

"Including myself," Andrews groaned. "It's no good—I know that all right—but for the rest of my life I shall go on thinking that she is the most beautiful creature God ever created. I'd marry her tomorrow if she'd have me."

Matresser through half closed eyes looked across at his guest and took careful note of him. Samuel Andrews, M. D. was a very fair type of the country doctor—a short man, stockily built, with correct manners, narrow vision, sufficient knowledge of his craft to earn something of a reputation and absolutely content with his life.

It was about a mile and a half to the doctor's house along an almost typical Norfolk lane. They had jogged along about half of the distance.

QUAKERS UPSET MASSILLON IN OVERTIME

Sutter Sinks Long Shot In Extra Period to Win For Salem High Quint

Quakers Display Good Brand Of Basketball In Conquering Strong Massillon Team, 27-24; Schaeffer Hits Best Form Of Season

To Salem High school's Quakers today belongs the honor of being one of two teams to hold an edge in basketball competition with Massillon High school's Tigers, who annually produce one of the strongest scholastic cage teams in Ohio.

The Quakers went one up on the Tigers in their 11-game series by ringing up a 27 to 24 victory in a "sudden death" overtime game, played last night before more than 1,200 excited fans in Massillon's spacious gymnasium.

The hero of the Quakers' unexpected triumph was good-looking Burton Sutter, senior guard, who up until the early part of the current season was not conceded a chance of winning a regular berth on the Red and Black first string team.

Sutter connected for the game-winning field goal in the overtime period on a perfect shot from the left side of the court beyond the foul line. Good pass work left him wide open for the shot and his accuracy resulted in the ball dropping through the hoop without touching the backboard.

Just a few seconds before Sutter's winning goal, Amos Dunlap, diminutive forward, had failed in an attempt to give the Quakers the victory. Dunlap was awarded two free throws when he was fouled by Ray Getz of Massillon while attempting a shot from under the basket. He connected on his first toss from the charity stripe, but the ball fell inches short of dropping through the hoop on his second shot.

Conversion of both free throws by Dunlap would have given the local team the victory a few seconds earlier. In "sudden death" overtime play, the team which scores two points first is awarded the decision. If neither team scores two points in the three-minute extra period, it is possible for the team which has scored one point to win, but the full overtime period must be played before this applies.

The Quakers came from behind in the fourth quarter to tie the score and force the game into overtime. Trailing by two points at the close of the third period, Coach Herb Brown's charges pulled up even with Massillon early in the fourth period and remained on even terms until the end of the game.

The score was tied four times in the final frame, first at 18-18, again at 20-20, a third time at 22-22 and finally at 24-24. Neither team scored in the last minute of play after the count had been tied at 24-24 when one minute and 10 seconds of playing time remained.

Although they were on the short end of the score at the close of the second and third quarters, the Quakers were never far behind the Tigers. Massillon held its biggest edge mid-way in the second period when they led by five points, 12 to 7, but the Quakers sliced their advantage to one point, 12 to 11, before the first half ended.

Massillon moved to the front at the start of the second period when Horace Gillon collected two field goals to give the Tigers a four-point lead, 8 to 4. The two teams played even in terms in the first frame, scoring four points apiece.

Continuing to hold the lead after pulling out in front at the opening of the second frame, Massillon led 12 to 11 at halftime and 18 to 16 at the end of the third quarter.

The Tigers outscored the Quakers in both the second and third quarters to hold their advantage, making eight points to Salem's seven in the second frame and six points to Salem's five in the third stanza.

A field goal by Les Knepp from the left side of the court enabled the Quakers to tie the score at 18-18 early in the fourth period. Paul Herman came back with a field goal for the Quakers, but the Salem lads again tied the count at 22-22 when Bill Schaeffer picked a rebound off the backboard and dropped the ball through the hoop.

Schaeffer added another field goal a minute later when he connected on a hook shot from the pivot position. This placed the Quakers in the lead 24-22, but the Tigers came back to tie the count at 24-24 a half minute later.

Schaeffer hit his best form of the season in pacing the Quakers to the well-earned victory. In addition to playing an important part in the Quakers' offense at the pivot post, he collected five field goals and two free throws to lead the Salem scoring with 12 points.

The Quakers' center also turned in a fine defensive performance in guarding Gillom, the Tigers' clever center and pivot man. Gillom broke away from Schaeffer only once during the game. Three of the four field goals the Massillon center made were on one-handed hook shots, which Schaeffer could not stop without committing a foul.

Contributing heavily to the Quakers' triumph was good floor work by Dinty McLaughlin, Glen Duncan, Dunlap and Sutter, who performed better than any time this season around the pivot point. The Quakers were able to use the pivot position to more advantage than they have in any previous game.

The Quakers all-around performance was as fine as it has been this season. They played tight defensive ball and displayed good ball-handling and clever pass work.

WOOSTER POSTS EIGHTH WIN IN STATE CIRCUIT

Scots Continue To Hold Lead By Walloping Bowling Green

(By Associated Press)

The laddies who play under the banner of the Wooster Scots apparently intend to take the Ohio basketball conference laurels via the grand slam route.

They bagged their eighth consecutive loop victory—against no less than a tilt with Bowling Green university last night. The score was 48 to 39.

The Bee-Gees kept the invading Scots from making a field goal in the first 13 minutes of play and held the count to 23-20 at the half, in Wooster's favor. Henderson, Scot guard, went on a second half rampage and netted five mid-floor tosses that gave Wooster a decisive lead.

Case of Cleveland, hitherto defeated in conference play, was crushed by Muskingum at New Concord, 48 to 27. The Muskies were in front at the half, 22-13. Don Everett garnered 19 of Muskingum's points. The Scientists previously had taken four circuit games.

Mount Union trounced Denison university, 41 to 28 in another conference battle. Dick Paxson's 16 points paced Mount's attack. Indiana university, meanwhile, downed Xavier university at Cincinnati, 48 to 39. Indiana led at the half, 30-18.

Grove City (Pa.) college nosed out Hiram, 46 to 44, by looping a pair of last-minute free throws. The Ohio quint held a 23-21 half-time lead. Oberlin, invading Geneva, N. Y., failed to halt a determined Hobart drive in the second half and lost by a 50 to 46 count. Oberlin commanded the situation during the first half.

Bluffton scored a 40 to 35 victory over Findlay. The halftime count was 23-13 in Bluffton's favor. Ohio College of Chiropractic edged out Youngstown in a tight set-to at Cleveland, 25 to 23. Taylor university of Upland, Ind., downed Giffin of Van Wert, 41 to 40.

Sharkey Takes Another Step In Bid For Armstrong Title

Another step in his bid for a shot at Henry Armstrong's lightweight boxing title will be taken by Ray Sharkey of Cleveland Tuesday night when he meets Harry Weekly of Alliance in the main bout of a professional boxing show which will be presented at the Memorial building by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Sharkey has been moving along rapidly in the professional game since making his pro debut about three years ago. He is a former Cleveland Golden Gloves champion and was runner-up for the lightweight title in the National A. A. U. championships.

His opponent, Weekly, is the recognized Ohio lightweight champion and ranks well up on the list of nation's lightweights. Weekly was offered a bout in Houston, Texas, Tuesday night but turned the offer down in favor of meeting Sharkey. Their bout will go 10 rounds.

Three other six-round bouts are also booked for the show, the proceeds of which will be used to purchase a new hot water system for the Memorial building.

BOWLING RESULTS

The Gladden Paint ladies hit their best form of the season at the Grate Recreation alleys last night, turning in a 2512 score to win over the Columbiana Barons men's team by 241 pins.

Miss Stella Smith paced the performance as three of the Gladden ladies hit over 500. Miss Smith had 542 for high total on both teams, while Mrs. Ruth Hine had 506 and Mrs. Frieda Orr 509.

The 2512 score is the highest rolled by a Salem ladies team in Salem this season.

The leading Democratic team dropped three games to the Sanitary Shippers in the Federal League at the Masonic alleys last night, but the defeats did not lower the Democrats' out of first place.

The second-place Brownies' Amoco gained a notch on the Democrats by taking two out of three heats with Meissner's Service. Other matches saw the Ohio Edison Sales win two out of three from the National Brass & Copper and the Sanitary Office take three games from the Eagles.

The Modern Beauty Shop ladies upset the top-ranking Grate Recreation team in the Grate ladies league at the Grate alleys last night. The Beauticians won three games over the league leaders.

Kaufman's Grocers won two out of three games from the Unknowns and Endres-Gross Florists took three heats with the Church Budget in other ladies matches.

The Grate Recreation road team dropped a decision in a special handicap, losing to a Dover team, 2644 to 2450.

BETTINA SHOWS GOOD PUNCH IN DEFEATING FOX

Beacon, N. Y., Fighter Cops Light Heavy-weight Ring Title

BY DREW MIDDLETON
NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Well sir, Mello Bettina is the light heavy-weight champion of the world in New York state. And if John Henry Lewis doesn't look right sharp the Beacon, N. Y., bully boy is liable to become boss all over the United States.

Mello cut down Tiger Jack Fox, the war-torn Spokane, Wash., Negro in 1:22 of the ninth round of their 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night. In so doing he revealed himself as a courageous, aggressive young man with a sharp punch.

Bettina, at 172 1/2 pounds, gave 2 1/4 to Fox.

For seven rounds Mello took second billing to the antics of about 1,000 of his fellow townspeople in the crowd of 7,947, which paid a gross gate of $18,189.85. While these rabid followers cheered, whistled, booed and stamped, he fought a floundering misdirected fight against the Tiger.

In the eighth he suddenly got organized and the Tiger fell apart. A left hook to the chin shook Fox and Bettina went after him. Ten punches to the face and body and the Tiger dropped to the canvas.

He was up at nine but he was through. Bettina pummeled him savagely for the rest of the round but the bell saved Fox. It didn't in the 43rd ninth. Fox was out on his feet when Referee Eddie Josephs stepped in and called it.

Up to the eighth Fox had a shade of the mulling. He had bloodied the southpaw's nose and staggered him with a bombardment of left and right uppercuts thrown from the knees.

In his dressing room Bettina proclaimed he would be a "fighting champion." Mike Jacobs is arranging a fight between John Henry Lewis and Dave Clark of Detroit and the winner probably will meet Mello.

Fox insisted the fight shouldn't have been stopped, that he could have gone on and was getting stronger. Referee Josephs disagreed. "Fox was dazed," he said. "It would have been dangerous for him to continue."

house it would recognize those mistakes and "do everything within its power to continue a fearless, honest and complete investigation of what is a definite danger."

Replies to Critics
To critics who had contended the committee had attacked the New Deal, he retorted that it would not have sought the cooperation of government agencies if that had been its desire.

Through the hour's debate was threaded a clear hint to the committee, even from those who favored renewing it, that many members disapproved some of its procedure, the nature of its evidence and the type of testimony it permitted.

Dies told reporters, however, he was sure any grounds for criticism could be eliminated.

LORAIN BOXER TAKES HONORS

Wins 126-Pound Title In Golden Gloves Bout In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 4.—Max Shindler of Lorain is the 126-pound champion of the Cleveland Plain Dealer's 1939 Golden Gloves boxing tournament.

The Bavarian-born boxer scored a third round knockout last night over Robert Root of Cleveland, but only after staging a comeback that a crowd of nearly 10,000 fans cheered loudly.

The speedy pair mixed it from the first gong, their bout enhanced by a recent victory Max scored over Bobby Root deluged Shindler with left and rights, taking several in return.

Then Root connected for a smashing blow, flooring Shindler for a count of seven. The Lorain youth gained his feet only to take another flashing right that sent him to the canvas for a count of two.

Shindler came back boldly, standing his ground and exchanging blows with Root. He gained momentum in the second round, despite a cut over his left eye. In the third, Shindler connected with a short right to Root's left jaw that put the Clevelander into the knockout haze. Root strove unsuccessfully to get up at the count of eight.

Mike Zampini of Cleveland outpointed Lewis DeWeese of Akron in the heavyweight bracket, but the spectators booed the decision long and lustily.

Tony Algeri of Cleveland took the honors in the 118-pound class by default from Bob T. James of Akron, whose trainer reported him as ill.

In the novice division, Nicholas Rotz of Canton knocked out Steve Simko of Cleveland in the third frame of their 175-pound encounter. Rotz former Canton McKinley High school gridiron star, had Simko on the canvas briefly in the first round and sent him down again at the end of the second. Rotz administered a pair of lethal rights to his rival's jaw as the third stanza opened.

Cleveland won all other open division titles.

Minnesota Battles Ohio State Cagers

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 4.—Leadership in the Big Ten basketball race will go to the winner of the pivotal clash here tonight between front-running Minnesota and Ohio State's second-place aggregation.

Minnesota athletic officials say the game is sold out, 15,700 seats having been disposed of, a new record exceeding by several hundred the throng which saw the Illinois-Minnesota game of a few weeks ago.

The Gophers, having five victories in six league starts, must win to retain the pinnacle while the Buckeyes need a triumph to prevent their slipping into a tie for third place with Illinois.

The only other conference game tonight brings together Iowa and Northwestern at Evanston.

Receive Copies Of Jobless Warrants

LISBON, Feb. 4.—Sub-division relief officials have received copies of 15 warrants prepared by the Ohio Unemployment Compensation commission.

The warrants represent the first payments on unemployment insurance in the county and were mailed to John Orr, relief director. They will be checked against relief rolls. Copies will be received weekly, Orr states.

A report on relief activities during the past year, prepared by N. J. Hirt, has been approved by state authorities. Hirt announced Friday. It lists disbursements totaling $197,639.99 and encumbrances of $243,181.64.

Three findings were reported in which $1,178.94 was listed as obtained improperly by relief clients. Of the total $680.35 was collected and the balance turned over to Prosecutor Karl Stouffer for collection.

John Orr, county relief director, and the commissioners were commended for their cooperating in the relief program.

ASK SENATORS TO TELL VIEWS

Republicans Feel Committee Should Be Permitted To Speak

"Intrinsically it is of small importance whether the President actually used those words," said Lok-Anzieger. "He must have meant something like it or else American papers could hardly have been so unanimous on the subject."

National Zeitung of Essen, the mouthpiece of Hermann Wilhelm Goerring, said the President obviously had received a bad fright from the reaction to the reports.

In London, one diplomat commented that Mr. Roosevelt's "outspoken sympathy for democracies is enough at present to put a brake on the aggressive policies of Germany and Italy."

Meanwhile, one of the controversial page sales to the European democracies—an order of 200 bombing planes for the British government—reached the stage of first shipments from New York.

At his press conference yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt declared there had been no change in traditional American foreign policy and that there was not going to be any change.

Nye Surprised

This pronouncement brought an immediate expression of surprise from Senator Nye (R-ND), who attended the Tuesday conference and said immediately afterward that it looked like he would be bound by secrecy after such an important discussion.

"If this has been our foreign policy all of the time, why the secrecy of late days?" Nye demanded.

Theatre Attractions

Robert Young, Eleanor Powell, Gracie Allen and George Burns, appearing together in "Honolulu," at the State theater Sunday through Tuesday.

Eleanor Powell and Robert Young are teamed romantically in the State theater's Sunday, Monday and Tuesday presentation, "Honolulu," which also features Gracie Allen and George Burns.

Young plays a dual role in the story of a screen star who wants a vacation to get away from fame. At an "opening night" he is told that the crowd has surrounded a man who resembles him, demanding his autograph. This inspires the star to arrange an exchange of personalities with his double and the deal is on.

Falls For Dancer
On board ship bound for Honolulu, the Hollywood man meets a cabaret dancer and falls for her. Then, in Honolulu, he discovers that he has come into the difficulties of his double, including a charge of embezzlement and a fiancée. The confusion is straightened out when the double is persuaded to come back to the island.

Particularly outstanding and a surprise hit to producers who did not expect it, is "A Man to Remember," which will be shown at the State Wednesday only. Edward Ellis in the role of a country doctor, Anne Shirley and Lee Bowman in romantic parts, head the supporting cast.

The sequel to the popular detective-comedy "There's Always a Woman" is the new "Tanya's That Woman Again," with Melvyn Douglas playing the role of a private detective for the second time and Virginia Bruce filling the role of his wife, played by Joan Blondell in the preceding story.

Margaret Lindsay, Jonathan Hale, Stanley Ridges, Gordon Oliver and Paul Harvey have important roles in the production which will be the attraction Thursday and Friday at the State.

Bobby Bren Booked

"Fisherman's Wharf," with Bobby Bren in the leading role, shows Saturday only at the State. Henry Armetta, Leo Carrillo, Lee Patrick and Slicker the Seal provide the comedy with some entertaining bits.

"Slave Ship," a major production of several seasons ago, plays a return engagement as the first feature on a double bill at the Grand Sunday.

Co-starring Warner Baxter and Wallace Beery, the picture tells an exciting, robust tale of the slave-trading era. Elizabeth Allan and cruise is turned into a voyage in which they are continually brought face to face with danger and death.

"Peck's Bad Boy"
The second feature at the Grand Sunday is "Peck's Bad Boy With the Circus," featuring Tommy Kelly and Ann Gillis of "Tom Sawyer" and Edgar Kennedy.

Frank Janks and Dorothea Kent have the leads in "Strange Faces," a comedy showing Wednesday only at the Grand, on a double bill with "Frontiers of '49," a western featuring Bill Elliott.

Buck Jones in "California Frontier" will be seen Friday and Saturday at the Grand.

Concluding tonight are: Jane Withers, "The Arizona Wildcat," and the Walt Disney cartoon, "Ferdinand the Bull," at the State and the Three Mesquites, John Wayne, Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune in "Santa Fe Stampede," at the Grand.
